The Missouri Photo Workshop // Sept. 27, 2014 // Volume 66 // Issue 7

Thirteen-year-old Grace Cogan is a fighter. After going through a difficult childhood plagued with a whole battery of tests and surgeries, she is now leading a life similar to her peers. Every Tuesday, her aunt Joyce takes her on adventures. One of their favorites is the hardware store to look for interesting items. (Photo by Bernice Wong)

ONE MPW MEMORY I WILL NEVER FORGET

“The feeling of being stressed. The stress of it all. But also Anna Zimmerman was a girl with disabilities that I met – makes everyone around her happy.”

-Peter Mather

“Even with a difficult subject, if you’re willing to listen, people will talk to you.”

- Sara Naomi Lewkowicz

“Subtle moments make wonderful pictures.”

- Octavian Cantilli

“I’ve learned to be better about asking more direct questions from the start to figure out what the story is.”

- Alyssa Schukar

“My memory card.”

- Marianelle Auguirre

“The incredible experience of forgetting everything that I know about photography and learning it again.”

- Federica Armstrong

“I feel like as a group we got involved in this town. We really ended up getting to know our subjects well, and I became friends with mine.”

- Kevin Hagen

“Since I was working in a mobile clinic, I got to visit five to ten homes every day and I got to meet so many different people.”

- Gaston Lacombe
